PROHIBITION OFFICERS WORK IN CENTRE COUNTY

Confiscated Car in Bellefonte and Caused Two Arrests.

COUNTER CHARGE FILED

While under the impression that liquor was being secured by a number of persons from Gordon Montgomery's new special Studebaker car, which was parked in front of the armory last Friday night, two prohibition enforcement officers and a state policemen confiscated the car and took into custody the chauffeur, Arnott Woodson, a colored boy. The Academy football dance was under way in the armory at the time and quite a few cars were parked along the street. Gordon Montgomery was dancing when his car was confiscated and did not learn of the matter until probably half an hour later. Upon being informed that the chauffeur had been locked up and the car removed to the jail, Montgomery had warrants sworn out charging the officers with larceny. By this time both sides to the controversy were quite indignant and information charging violation of the Woner State law were filed against Woodson and Montgomery in the quarter sessions courts.

The car, in a pocket of which had been found a bottle of gin, was taken to Punxsutawney by the prohibition enforcement officers on Saturday. Montgomery and Woodson furnished bail.

The prohibition officers who figured in the case were: N. H. Crease and S. H. Rankin, working under Group Head G. H. Ballinger, of the Punxsutawney district. The state policeman was H. A. Clark. Mr. Crease made the following statement to "The Republican" before starting back to Punxsutawney with the Montgomery car:

"We were sent to this district several days ago. For about ten days we have been working in different parts of Centre County and find conditions pretty bad. We heard this swell affair was going to be held on Friday evening and went down to see the fun and enjoy ourselves.

"Our attention was called to this particular car by the number of couples who went into it just long enough to get a drink and then returned. We watched it for some time until confident it was being used as a regular street barroom.

"We searched it without a warrant and found a quart of gin and a pint bottle, part full. The driver was then placed under arrest and we confiscated the car.

"After charges had been made against us for making the arrest and confiscating the car, the young men wanted to withdraw their information and let it go. We demand a hearing and want to arrange for a hearing about Friday. We had sufficient evidence to know that the car was being used for illegal purposes and, under the circumstances, we were vested with power to proceed.

"We have made information before the United States Commissioner in Clearfield and set the hearing for Tuesday, the 27th. We will take the car to Punxsutawney with us.

"The car is worth about $2,000. We will take it to Punxsutawney and the owner is given an opportunity to give bonds for its security, say $3,000 in this instance. The car is returned to the owner for his use when the bonds are given. Later, when the owner is given a hearing before a Federal Judge, if he is found guilty, the car is demanded again, and the owner will likely lose it. If the car is not turned over, as sometimes is the case, he forfeits the sum named in the security bonds."

Montgomery said that he would suffer being penalized himself before he would allow Woodson to undergo punishment, taking the position that Woodson was in charge of the car as a paid chauffeur. At the same time Montgomery denied that the trifling quantity of liquor found in the car had been placed there by him or with his knowledge or consent.

The charge filed by Montgomery against Clark, the State policeman, was withdrawn on Wednesday.

Woodson was scheduled for a hearing at Clearfield on Tuesday, but upon arriving there it appeared that the enforcement officers were in error in designating the place and that the proceedings would have to be held in Williamsport. This hearing is scheduled for Williamsport tomorrow. The enforcement officers made an error also in taking Montgomery's car to Punxsutawney instead of Williamsport. Montgomery was at Clearfield on Tuesday to furnish bonds for the release of the car, but the enforcement officers refused to give it up, for the time being, at least. The only point involved, namely, that of a car being subject to confiscation if even a few ounces of liquor happen to be found in it, is one that is being followed with the greatest concern by all automobilists. For the first time it has dawned upon them that any car, parked even temporarily, is in danger. It would be a simple matter for a maliciously inclined person to place a small quantity of liquor in any car and then call the attention of an officer who would make a search. Even under such conditions the car would be liable to confiscation and the owner would have the greatest difficulty and some expense in recovering it, to say nothing of the annoyance and embarrassment that would attend publicity of the incident.

SMITH DENIED PARDON

Is Under Sentence to be Electrocuted This Month.

The state board of pardons refused to grant the application for commutation of the death sentence of Floyd Smith, of Bradford County, and he is to be electrocuted at Rockview this month. He spent two Christmas seasons in the death-house at Rockview while friends attempted time and again to save him from the electric chair. Seven times he was given respites and, while others paid the penalty for murder, he waited in his cell as friends did their utmost to save him.

Smith's case first aroused sympathy for commutation when a letter was opened and found to contain a sentence, "Before my Maker, I declare I am innocent of murder." The letter had been left on the desk of the editor of the Towanda Morning Review and was sent by Smith, who stated it should not be opened until after his electrocution was over. The city editor's attorney persuaded the former to open the letter, saying that it might be opened at any time, but the contents withheld from publication until after the electrocution. The one sentence remained in the mind of the attorney, David Kauffman, who, it is said, spent more than $5,000 of his personal funds in his efforts to save Smith, whom he declared to be innocent.

T. W. Young, of Bellefonte, former chaplain of the Western penitentiary, in making a plea for Smith, told the board that during his seven years at Rockview, more than 80 men had passed through the electric chair and this was the first case in which he was convinced of the innocence of the man. Rev. Young said:

"I would have walked from Bellefonte to Harrisburg if I had had no means to pay my way. After fourteen months of the most intimate relations with him I am convinced that this man did not commit the crime of murder."

On one occasion Smith was respited within a few minutes of the time set for him to be placed in the chair. The former chaplain declared that on that day, within an hour set for the time of the execution, he pleaded with Smith to acknowledge his guilt if he had committed the crime. "I can pass through this chair easier, conscious that I did not commit this crime, than I could live conscious that I did," Rev. Young told the board Smith replied.

LEGION HEAD'S ADDRESS

State Commander Healey Made Splendid Impression.

State Commander of the American Legion William B. Healey, of Scranton, made a splendid impression upon those who attended the public meeting of the American Legion in the Bellefonte armory on Tuesday evening. Mr. Healey arrived in Bellefonte on the 3:08, which was delayed for nearly two hours, however, on account of a breakdown of the engine at Mt. Carmel.

He came here from Lock Haven and on Wednesday went to Huntingdon. He was introduced to the audience by Brooks-Doll Post Commander Ogden Malin, who expressed the honor felt by local Legionaires in having him as their guest.

Mr. Healey very forcibly told of the strength of the American Legion in this state and paid a high tribute to the American soldier. "As a result of examination of 17,000 of the 150,000 war contracts granted," he said, "$17,000,000 has been paid back to the American government." He cited profiteering in sugar, the American airplane scandal and other glaring instances of profiteering and fraud. In discussing at length the needs of aiding ex-service men, he claimed the greatest need is far better care of those whose minds have been deranged through war service. He explained the Legion's stand for restricted immigration and, in concluding, pointed out duties of the American Legion.

Splendid music was given by the orchestra and refreshments were served.

WARDEN MOSIER IS AFTER DOGS THAT CHASE DEER

Says He Will Kill Them and Bring Prosecutions.

MANY RUNNING FREE

"There are too many dogs chasing deer in Centre County and I am going to get some of them. I will spend nearly every day in the woods now and I am carrying my rifle with me. Complaints of dogs chasing deer have come to me from Pine Grove Mills, from Kinney's district in the Seven mountains, from Nittany valley, Snow Shoe and now over at Karthaus. This is a big district to get over, but there are too many deer running free now and I am going after them. Wherever possible I will kill the dogs and will prosecute the owners. I killed a dog on the Snow Shoe mountain the other day. It had no collar on, so I don't know just yet who was the owner, but I expect to get some of the owners pretty soon." said Thomas Mosier county game protector, while in "The Republican" office on Saturday afternoon.

Mosier had just gotten back from Penn's valley where a deer was killed in a field on the Edward Brown property, near Potters Mills, on Feb. 19. This was a fawn and was not damaged much by the dogs which chased it and which were caught. The deer was dressed and the venison, in good condition, was given to the Bellefonte hospital.

Two dogs were in the chase after this deer and the one was killed. It had no license tag but was recognized as the property of John Burkholder, of Potters Mills, it is said.

Two informations were made against Burkholder by Mr. Mosier before Justice Kline Woodring, of Bellefonte. The one information charges him with the illegal killing of a deer out of season, for which there is a fine of $100. The other charges him with harboring a dog which was not licensed and also carries a fine.

A hearing before Justice Woodring was to be held on Saturday morning, but Mr. Burkholder failed to appear. Mr. Mosier went after him and was informed that one of the witnesses was ill so that he could not hold the hearing. Bail in the sum of $200 for a hearing for this Thursday was then arranged before Squire Cyrus Brungard, of Centre Hall.

Mr. Mosier says he has secured the game wardens from neighboring counties, two of them, to assist him in his determined effort to stamp out chasing of game by dogs running free.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Lee Bodle, of State College, Saved by Stomach Pump at Hospital.

Drinking illegal booze gave Lee Bodle, a young man of State College, and several friends, a scare on Monday evening. It is said that all that saved Bodle's life was prompt use of the stomach pump at the Bellefonte Hospital. He was able to leave the hospital on Tuesday.

Bodle's friends were Lawrence Woomer, Claude Swabb, Clayton Martz and Edward Johnson, other young men of State College. They were at a hearing in the office of Justice J. M. Keichline on Tuesday evening. Their testimony indicated that each took a few drops only of the concoction but even that amount was too much.

The hearing was the result of information made against Wm. J. Parker, Jr., of Bellefonte, charging him with selling the stuff by Chas. H. Tressler, a taxi-driver of State College. The evidence was not sufficient to convince Justice Keichline and he withheld the decision until Friday.

Clinton County's Oldest Woman.

Mrs. Catherine English, Clinton County's oldest woman, quietly observed her 100th birthday anniversary last Friday at the home of her son, J. L. English, of DuBois, where she is spending the winter. The greater part of her long life has been spent in the vicinity of Renovo. She is the mother of nine children, seven of whom are living. She voted right after woman suffrage was granted. Until the age of 96, she had the good use of her faculties, but has been declining since then. She remembers when the Indians wandered through this section.

Pomona Grange at Beech Creek.

A large meeting of Pomona Grange was held in Beech Creek last Thursday. Over 100 persons enjoyed the splendid dinner served at the noon hour.

AIR MAIL PILOT KILLED IN CRASH AT MEADVILLE

Elmer G. Leonhardt, Well Known Here, is Victim.

LOST HIS WAY IN FOG

The first serious accident to occur in the United States air mail service in this district, according to local aviation field men, since July, 1920, was that which on Monday resulted in the death of Elmer G. Leonhardt, one of the oldest aviators in the service.

Leonhardt was well-known in Bellefonte. He laid over on the Cleveland and New York end of the route, being in this section a large part of the time for nearly two years. He was a young man who got into the flying game early in life and stuck to it, meeting generally with success. He never seemed to care much for stunt flying, but was careful and watchful. When he started on his trip from Bellefonte to Cleveland on Monday the air was heavy and he got lost as he neared Meadville, being about 50 miles out of the regular course.

Persons in the vicinity where his plane crashed, say that his engine was misfiring and that he had circled for some time to get a landing place. The foggy atmosphere made it hard to see, but he finally attempted to land in a farm field and the plane crashed into a fence.

Leonhardt was flying government plane No. 291. When he passed over Meadville at 4 P. M., he circled low, passing over buildings in that town at a height of not more than 50 feet above the roofs, it was said. He seemed to be having trouble then and it was 10 miles west of Meadville that he crashed.

The young man's home was in Cleveland. His mother and several brothers and sisters reside in that city. Also, he is survived by his widow, to whom he was married the latter part of June, 1921.

He was one of the oldest pilots in the service and contended with Jack Knight, another pilot who was formerly stationed in Bellefonte and is well-known here, for honors as to who had been in the air the longest number of hours and as to who held the record for flying. Leonhardt claimed 150,000 miles as his record for carrying mail without a serious accident. He entered the mail service in September, 1919. He was 24 years old.

Sure We Remember.

A letter from Curt C. Miller, now located at Sharon, Pa., received one day last week at "The Republican" office, awakened more memories of thirty years ago than anything we know of that has happened recently. What Curt Miller wanted to know was whether the editor of "The Republican" remembered the baseball games we played together at Milesburg in those good, old days. Do we remember? We'll say we do. Curt was one of the Milesburg boys and the editor of "The Republican" caught them behind the bat for the Bellefonte side. Sometimes the Bellefonte crowd made the trip to Milesburg in Abe Baum's hack with Alf on the driver's seat. Other times we walked to Milesburg and back. Just as like as not the game had a stormy finish. We recall vividly one occasion when Baum's hack made a hasty exit from Milesburg because sticks and stones were too near and numerous for comfort. Bellefonte and Milesburg were usually pretty evenly matched, and the enthusiasm of partisan fans often reached a high pitch. Arguments, and now and then a free-for all scrap along the side lines, were counted in as part of the afternoon program. The editor of "The Republican" has seen quite a few of the top-notch professional pitchers, but as we viewed things thirty years ago the fellow who pitched the fastest ball, bar none, was Clyde Boggs, a Milesburg star. The only home run the writer ever batted into the lots was scored off Boggs, and we have countless times concluded that it must have been purely accidental. We must have had a drag with the umpire, too, for the deep, line drive in question sailed most mightily close along the first base line and wasn't counted a foul. Do we remember? Why, Milesburg is more indelibly fixed in our mind than any other place in the world just because of those old baseball days. It only required such a welcome letter as we received from Curt Miller to jog our memory and afford us pleasing recollections of the time when the boys had baseball that was baseball and games developed friendships that exist and are valued to the present day.

Bellefonte Defeated State College.

The Bellefonte High school basket ball team defeated the State College High on the latter's floor on Wednesday afternoon by a score of 23—14.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

Anniversary at Lemont Home of Mr. and Mrs. William Schreck.

Mr. and Mrs. William Schreck, who are among the most widely known and highly esteemed residents of Lemont, celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary on Tuesday, Feb 20, at their home. They received the best wishes of the guests who attended, as well as a large sum of gold, glassware and a beautiful lamp, the latter a present from their sons.

Mr. Schreck is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Schreck, both deceased, early settlers in Lemont. His good wife is a daughter of Abraham and Betsy Houser, deceased, formerly of Centre Furnace. Mr. and Mrs. Schreck's fifty years of married life has been blessed with two sons, John and James, of Lemont.

Those present at the gathering were: Rev. A. D. Thompson and wife, of Houserville; Mr. and Mrs. James Houser and Mr. Bell, of State College; Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig and daughter, of Pitcairn; Mrs. and Mrs. W. R. Houser, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rishel, of Bellefonte; Miss Garver, of Centre Furnace; Mrs. Sarah Moore, of Philipsburg; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Evey, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Klinger, Mrs. Jacob Klinger, Miss Sue Lenker, Mrs. Dan Billetts, Mr. and Mrs. John Schreck and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. James Schreck and son, Ernest Musser, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lenker, of Lemont.

Dinner was served at 12:30, after which the guests were entertained with a very appropriate address by Rev. Thompson, pastor of the United Brethren church, of Houserville, in which he alluded to the fifty years which the couple have traveled together upon life's tempestuous ocean, sharing each other's sorrows, enjoying each other's pleasures, until they had reached this happy stage in life when their children and their children's children, together with their relatives and neighbors, meet to show their respect to them. He finished by greatly commending the aged couple for the pious and religious life they have spent together in this world, and hoping they would be among the number of those who would meet in the great reunion above. The address was very interesting throughout, full of encouragement to the aged and advice to the young.

IN NEW OFFICES

Striking Improvements Made by Keystone Power Corp.

The Keystone Power Corporation this week occupied their new offices, just across from the Court House in the rooms used as emergency quarters by the local banks while their buildings were being improved. The change gives both the Keystone Power Corporation and the Electric Supplies Store, each more room and better facilities for taking care of their patrons in giving better service.

Striking improvements were made in the rooms during the past few months since vacated by the First National Bank. The entrance was removed and extended several feet toward the front of the street. A large plate glass show window was put in, giving much better light and greatly improving the first impression the patron gets when about to enter the offices. There are four rooms, the large front office with modern semi-indirect lighting, the next a private offices for officials of the company, and further back, the toilet room and meter room.

The whole interior is nicely enameled in white and the walls papered with very attractive paper. New furniture was installed and a new floor covering put on, giving to the whole an atmosphere of progressiveness.

The district manager, E. C. Musser, is anxious to give the patrons the best of service, he said. The new offices will help make this possible.

Had Case Continued.

According to Justice of the Peace Brumgart, of Centre Hall, F. T. Michaels, a stock salesman, succeeded in having a case against him continued until May court. Michaels is charged with misrepresentation in stock transactions. According to Squire Brumgart, when a hearing was scheduled at Centre Hall, Michaels had his wife appear and ask for a continuance until this week when two claimants, David T. Stoner, of Centre Hall, and R. P. Campbell, of Penns Cave, would be paid. Last Friday, however, Michaels furnished $2500 bail, waiving a hearing and having his case go over until May.

Garden Seeds Again!

Garden seeds were received at "The Republican" office this week. There is a nice assortment of seeds, but only a small number of packages. We will aim to get one package into each home, but those who desire the seed should apply for them without delay, as it is likely they will not last long.

CRIMINAL CASES QUICKLY DISPOSED OF BY JUDGE

Philipsburg Bootlegger Given Six Months in Jail.

GRAND JURY'S REPORT

Court convened on Monday with the Honorable Henry C. Quigley on the bench. The Grand Jury was called and A. C. Mingle, merchant of Bellefonte, selected as foreman. Constables' returns taken and considerable time spent in hearing motions and petitions as presented by the several members of the bar. The trial list was then gone over the following cases disposed of:

J. Fred Herman vs Theodore D. Boal, discontinued.

J. Irvin Wagner vs James Lesthers, continued.

W. H. Sortman vs Charles O. Walters, continued.

This left but three civil cases open for trial during the week.

The first case called for trial was Joe Rupko and Mary Rupko, his wife, vs George Pinchock, which case came to trial on Monday afternoon.

This case grows out of a collision between the automobile of the defendant, driven by his son John Pinchock, and Mary Rupko, one of the plaintiffs. The accident occurred on the state road between Clarence and Sugar Camp, on June 3, 1921. It resulted in said plaintiff being thrown down, causing injuries to her arm and the back of her head so that stitches had to be used. A verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $110 to be paid Dr. Harris for services was given on Tuesday afternoon.

The Grand Jury made its final report on Tuesday afternoon that they had acted upon sixteen bills of indictment which were all found true bills. They found the County buildings in fairly good condition, with the following exceptions: That the concrete walks around the monument need leveling and repairs and also walks around the Court House and up to the jail need general repairs. We recommend that twelve extra iron beds, in addition to those now in use, for prisoners, and in order to make the jail safe in case of fire, recommend an exit on the east side of the building.

Guy Sankey and William Sankey, members of a hunting party at Osceola Mills, were each sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and undergo imprisonment in the Centre County jail for a period of 9 months. They were not convicted of other charges of wantonly pointing firearms. Charges against Sherald Sankey, a member of the hunting party, were dismissed, the testimony indicating that he was in camp when the others got into trouble.

Andy Lesko, of Philipsburg, on a bootlegging charge, was convicted and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and serve six months in jail.

Ray Patterson, charged with receiving stolen goods, in a case from Worth Twp., the Judge instructed the jury the evidence was not sufficient to convict and the case was taken from the jury.

Paid to Advertise.

Warren L. Musser, superintendent of the Hipple planing mill in Lock Haven, wanted a few extra men. He placed a want ad in the local paper and when the mill opened on Monday morning there were 47 applicants on hand. By 10.30, 25 more had applied for work and the men were still coming. "It pays to advertise."

Circus Billed for May.

Altoona will open the circus season this year on May 24 when Ringling Bros. shows are scheduled. The advance agent said the circus is bigger than ever—so much so in fact, that it can only be accommodated in the biggest cities and will stop only in Pittsburgh and Altoona in the trip through this section.

Withdrawal of Liquor Reduces.

Withdrawal of alcoholic liquors from bonded warehouses in Pennsylvania were cut down more than 66% during 1922. Raids in the state in 1921 were 906, in 1922 2,302; seizures in 1921 were 823, in 1922, 2,137.

HAIR STAYS COMBED, GLOSSY

"Hair Groom" Keeps Hair Combed—Well-Groomed.

Millions Use It—Fine for Hair!—Not Sticky, Greasy or Smelly.

A few cents buys a jar of "Hair-Groom" at any drug store. Even stubborn, unruly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair—that final touch to good dress both in business and on social occasions.

Greaseless, stainless "Hair-Groom" does not show on the hair because it is absorbed by the scalp, therefore your hair remains so soft and pliable and so natural that no one can possibly tell you used it.

Remarkabre Voice.

At a recent meeting of the Austrian Society of Experimental Phonetics in Vienna, reported in the Scientific American, Doctor Rethi presented Mr. Michael Prita, forty-four years of age, whose voice possessed the remarkable range of five complete octaves. The deepest note uttered by this singer was a bass F, corresponding to 42 vibrations per second and two octaves lower, therefore, than the deepest note which can be produced on the violin. The only previous record of so low a tone in the human voice is that of a bass singer named Fisher, who lived in the early part of the Eighteenth century.

Cathedral to Be National Shrine

Episcopalians Plan Structure in Washington to Rival Great European Edifices.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY OF U. S.

Costing $10,000,000 It Is Planned to Take the Place in American Hearts That Old Abbey Occupies in British Nation.

Washington.—Plans for immediate completion of a great American national cathedral, larger than Westminster abbey and rivaling the celebrated structures of Europe, were announced here at the annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Washington.

Costing $10,000,000, with its central tower rising above the Washington monument, the great edifice is planned to take in the hearts of Americans the place which the old abbey occupies with the British nation; probably to become the final resting place of America's celebrated dead and as "a witness for Christ in the capital of the nation." The plans contemplate more than a diocesan cathedral; they embrace a national shrine.

Although the construction of a cathedral on the heights of Mount Saint Alban, in the northwest section of Washington, has been going on slowly for some time, it was not until very recently that it was decided to raise the funds to complete the edifice immediately as a national undertaking.

Making the announcement Rt. Rev. Alfred T. Harding, bishop of Washington, pointed out that at the last general convention of the Episcopal church both houses unanimously adopted a resolution which "commends the erection without delay at the capital of the nation of a great cathedral to witness to the spiritual ideals of America."

Site Includes Sixty-Four Acres.

Beginning in a comparatively small way, the first bishop of Washington, the late Dr. Henry Yates Satterlee, made it his life's work to acquire and pay for the site, which has grown until now it comprises 64 acres, overlooking the Potomac. Already on the property is a school for girls. There is also a boys' school, and the bishop's home stands in the enclosure, close by. A great stone peace cross also stands in the grounds, erected at the close of the Spanish-American war, and dedicated by the late President McKinley.

The cathedral has been designed by one of the greatest English architects, the late George F. Bodley, and his American associate, the late Henry Baughan. It has been pronounced one of the most beautiful in the world.

It will be seen that in its great proportions the cathedral will be larger than Westminster abbey, for its whole length, outside measurement, will be 500 feet; its width 135 feet. Its great central tower will rise to 260 feet, and its twin front towers will be 195 feet tall. The massive central tower, erected on the great eminence, will have an elevation of 644 feet above the city of Washington, making it the most conspicuous and commanding object in the capital.

Apse Already Built.

The apse is already erected. The Bethlehem chapel, beneath the apse, is at present used for services. A considerable portion of the choir already is in process of construction, and the foundations of the entire structure, also in process of construction, will be completed within the coming year.

The present value of the property with its endowments and investment funds has been conservatively estimated at more than $4,000,000.

Behind the present national movement are to be numbered some of the best known Americans. Among those who are taking an active part are the following members of the Cathedral chapter: Charles C. Glover, chairman of the board of the Riggs National bank, at whose home in 1893 a meeting was held which resulted in the charter of the Cathedral Foundation; Henry White, former American ambassador to France; James Parmele, trustee of the Carnegie Foundation Fund; Corcoran Thom, Bishop Perry of Rhode Island, Bishop Rhinelander of Pennsylvania, Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of the cathedral; Rev. William L. DeVries, the chancellor, and Rev. James E. Freeman, rector of the Church of the Epiphany.

151 Schoolboys March to Safety as Building Burns

Baltimore.—Unaware that the floor above them was a seething mass of flames, 151 boy pupils of the St. James' Catholic parochial school marched in safety to the street when fire swept the upper portion of the school building, causing damage estimated at $50,000. Three firemen were injured in fighting the blaze.

Survived Custer Fight, He Says

Farmer Declares He Was Member of Famous Seventh Cavalry in Historic Massacre.

MEMORY A BLANK 24 YEARS

Impaired Mentality, Due to Wound in Fight, Caused Indians to Spare His Life—Gets Aid for Pension Claim.

McKee City, N. J.—Charles Hayward, a seventy-year-old farmer who lives here, says he is a survivor of the Custer massacre, when General George A. Custer and his Seventh cavalry were slaughtered by the Ogalala Sioux at the Little Big Horn river June 25, 1876. The histories of the event have always stated that not a single white man survived Custer's impetuous attack against a force that outnumbered his ten to one. But Hayward's story is sufficiently credible to have impressed Representative Isaac Bacharach, who intends to lay before the authorities at Washington Hayward's claim for a pension based on his war services under Custer.

Private in Seventh Cavalry.

Hayward says he was a private in Company I of the Seventh cavalry when it was detatched by General Terry as one of three bodies of troopers ordered to attack what was supposed to be a small body of Indians near the confluence of the Big Horn and the Little Big Horn rivers. And Representative Bacharach has searched the records and found that there was in Company I of the Seventh cavalry during its Indian campaigns a private named Charles Hayward.

To continue Hayward's account. The main body of the Sioux suddenly appeared and cut off from the white forces 264 men in Custer's command. The cavalrymen formed the customary circular barricade of slain horses and fought the Indians, who, according to Hayward, outnumbered them three to one, in contrast to the "ten to one" stated in the New International Encyclopaedia. Hayward, as he tells Representative Bacharach, was wounded "and went half out of his mind," the latter fact later saving his life. He climbed to the back of a wounded horse and started to flee. But not far from the barricade behind which Custer's men were rapidly being shot down his horse was shot again, falling and pinning its rider underneath.

Memory Is Impaired.

Of what happened after that Hayward says he remembers nothing. Later he was told that he had been found by Indians, who spared his life because of his impaired mentality. They put him to work and kept him in servitude until 1900. In that year he was sent one day to fetch a bucket of water, and while bending over a bubbling spring his mind cleared suddenly and completely, as quickly as it had become clouded 24 years before. Then he made his escape, still carrying with him the old headquarters flag of the Seventh cavalry wound about his waist.

When a few years later, he moved to Atlantic county, N. J., he entered a claim with the pension office at Washington for an annuity. But on account of his previous lapse of memory he was unable satisfactorily to substantiate his assertions or to relate his record in detail. Therefore the officials refused to believe his story and his pension was disallowed.

Since then he has repeatedly petitioned the bureau chiefs at the capital for an audience, but has had none. Representative Bacharach, however, is going to examine thoroughly the old farmer's romantic story, and if he is entitled to a pension he will try to get it for him. Hayward bears upon his body scars, which he displays with pride, stating that they are the last vestiges of the wounds he received while fighting under Custer at the Little Big Horn.

Willow Blossom of Chicago Marries

Rev. James E. Davis of the Central Christian church of Denver, Colo., traveled all the way to Chicago to unite in Christian matrimony his little Chinese friend, Willow Blossom, known to her school friends as Josephine Moy, to the noble Louis Hong, son of a wealthy tea merchant of Canton. They were married the day that Miss Moy graduated from the Hyde Park high school, Chicago. After the Christian wedding the Oriental customs were followed to please the older generation. The couple will return to China to live.

PASTEBOARD FOR FURNITURE

German Architect Said to Be Manufacturing Goods That Meet Every Requirement.

Helmstedt, Germany.—Karl Abt, a Helmstedt architect, has succeeded in producing durable, practical furniture made of pasteboard. The state of Brunswick, in which this city is situated, attaches so much importance to Abt's achievements that it has given him special concessions in a lease on a part of the former crown lands of St. Ludgeri, where he is planning to erect a large factory. Local experts declare Abt's furniture will meet every requirement.

TRAVELED IN A BOX

For five days Ira Colver Sparks of Peru, Ind., lived in a wooden box aboard a Japanese steamer bound from San Francisco to Honolulu, and kept alive on tinned food and water. Sparks gave himself up at Honolulu. He obtained the box in San Francisco, got a bill of lading and shipped the box as freight with himself inside. As Sparks is an American he cannot be an immigrant, and as he had $15 in his pockets and also carried a set of carpenter's tools he cannot be a vagrant, and as he arrived by freight he cannot be called a passenger, and as the customs duties are unpaid the Honolulu authorities hesitate to send him back; which is why they are puzzled.

ODD NICKNAME FOR SENATOR

Oliver Morton Was Long Known Among Colleagues as the "Devil on Two Sticks."

"The Devil on Two Sticks" was a nickname given to Oliver P. Morton, American senator. For many years he was affected by a dangerous and probably incurable disease. He visited Paris for the best medical advice, and submitted to the moxa treatment. It relieved him considerably, and doubtless prolonged his life, but did not restore the paralyzed legs. He was compelled to use a walking-stick in each hand. In the ordinary course of debate in the senate for the last few years he generally read and spoke in a sitting posture, the courtesy of his brother senators admitting that position. When dealing with questions of national importance he spoke standing, supporting himself against his desk and on one of his canes, but sometimes against a standing support, consisting of an iron standard surmounted by a small wooden reading desk.

During the fierce partisan debate in the senate near the close of the Civil war, and especially while the reconstruction measures were being discussed, he was a stalwart and excessively pugnacious fighter on the Republican side, and earned the appellation of "The Devil on Two Sticks."

UNPLEASANT MODE OF TRAVEL

Camel Litter Probably Most Uncomfortable Conveyance That It Is Possible to Imagine.

"All of the passengers across the Syrian desert save only ourselves made the journey in camel litters, than which no more uncomfortable means of transport could possibly be devised," relates Alexander Powell in the Century Magazine.

"A litter consists of a pair of shallow wooden boxes, slung one on each side of the camel like panniers, and held in place by a network of stout cords. On each pannier are a thick mattress and a number of bolsters and cushions, on which you half sit, half recline, hanging on for dear life to the cord network or anything else that offers. When the camel kneels or rises, unless you have tight hold of something, the chances are that you will be thrown violently to the ground.

"The litters used by the women are covered with slatted sides, and look like chicken coops. These litters necessitate a very cramped position on the part of their occupants, whose legs, incased in gaudily striped stockings held up by pink or yellow garters, frequently protrude unblushingly; for the only part of her person that a Moslem woman is particular about concealing is her face."

Sugar Trees.

It has been suggested that in all probability the bears were the first to locate and patronize trees that furnish sugar, the animals breaking down great branches to obtain the sweet material. The Indians were also in the secret that a rare kind of sugar might be had for the gathering from the Douglas fir in the dry belt of British Columbia and eastern part of the state of Washington.

The sugar output from this source varies. That it develops at all seems to be the result of atmospheric conditions. Firs growing on the northern and eastern slopes have proved to be the best sugar producers.

Certain qualities possessed by this tree sugar proclaim it a valuable article in chemistry and in medicine. It is hardly likely, however, that the white man will ever eat fir sugar to any extent, since the supply is limited, and every Douglas fir in the dry belt has more orders than it can fill.

Preferred the Cash.

Youngsters that come in contact with the public become most worldly wise. Johnny shined shoes and knew the ways of the world from intimate, and sometimes bitter experience. One day a prosperous-looking old gentleman stepped up into the shine stand. He eyed Johnny with a friendly interest.

"Young man, you look like a bright, intelligent young fellow," he remarked.

Johnny looked up at him unimpressed.

"Say, mister," he retorted, "I've had that line pulled on me before. What I want to know before we go any further, is this a cash shine or when I get through will you pat me on the head and tell me I'll be governor some day?"—Kansas City Star.

Well-Named Club for Girls.

A group of high school girls recently entered the office of the father of one of their number, a well-known man and a prominent lawyer.

"Well, young ladies," said the legal gentleman in an affable tone, "what can I do for you today?"

Thereupon the elected spokesman told him that they wanted him to help them select a name for their club.

"It is for the building of character," she said earnestly. "No men are to be admitted at any time. We have no use for men," she added with emphasis.

"Then why not call it the Building and Lone Association?"

THE PILL HOLD-UP

THIS actually happened and is well worth telling.

The drug clerk was just about to close up. It was getting late. The last policeman to rub his nose against the plate glass window, was far down the avenue when the clerk switched off the electric lights and turned the lock. Then it all happened.

A man rushed up to the door. "Say, man, I want a box of Beecham's Pills. Simply must have them!" he exclaimed. "Store's closed for the day," remarked the clerk as he pocketed the key. "Like thunder it is!" shouted the late comer, "I've got to have a box of Beecham's Pills tonight." The altercation grew heated. There was an exchange of blows.

Then the clerk took off his broken glasses, unlocked the door and handed out a 50 cent box of Beecham's Pills.

Can you beat it?

Beecham's Pills are so pleasantly effective in making sick stomachs well, sluggish livers active, and lazy bowels to function as they should, that Beecham's steadfast friends and supporters sometimes overflow with strenuous enthusiasm.

TO BE HISTORICAL MUSEUM

Stephen Collins Foster Memorial Museum Has Purchased Fine Home at Bardstown.

The Stephen Collins Foster Memorial association has recently purchased a fine old mansion at Bardstown, Ky., in which Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home." The original draft of the composition has been secured and it will occupy a conspicuous place in the new memorial hall. The society also intends to make its new home a historical museum for this section of the state, which teems with legends of frontier days on the "dark and bloody ground."

Bardstown is one of the oldest settlements in the Blue Grass state. The first Catholic cathedral west of the Alleghenies was built there. Louis Phillipe, a sojourner for some months at Bardstown as the guest of his old friend, Bishop Flagot, gave the church some rare paintings by Reubens and VanDyke. It was at St. Joseph's college, Bardstown, that Theodore O'Hara, the gifted poet, who wrote "The Bivouac of the Dead," received his education.

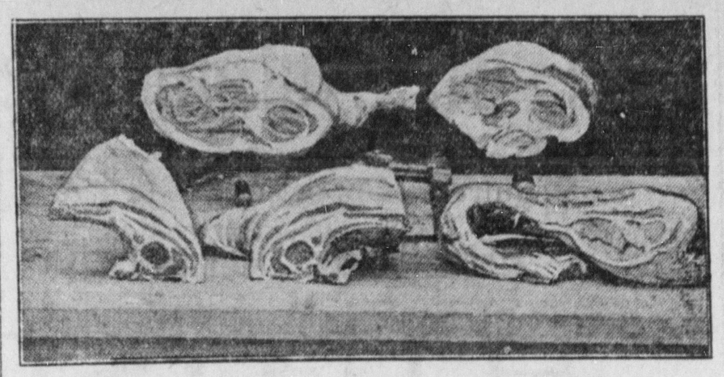
ALL CUTS OF LAMB AND MUTTON UTILIZED BY GOOD HOUSEKEEPER



American Housekeeper Inclined to Select Choice Cuts.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

While both lamb and mutton have been popular meats in many countries, the United States Department of Agriculture points out that there is a tendency among American housekeepers to limit their choice not only to lamb but to a few favorite cuts, such as rib chops, loin chops, roasts and leg of lamb. This has helped, no doubt, in keeping the price of lamb at a high level. Greater use should be made of the forequarter of lamb. Furthermore, there is no good reason why mutton cannot be made as popular here as it is in England.

Chops and Roasts.

The tender cuts of both lamb and mutton are the rib cuts, the loin and the leg. These are suitable for either broiling or roasting. The shoulder of lamb makes an excellent baked meat, if boned and stuffed.

Shish Kebab.

Parts of the shoulder, in the forequarter of the lamb, are fully as tender as other cuts, but less shapely than the leg to carve and serve. The meat close to the shoulder-blade and where the "eye" of the rib chops can be traced toward the neck will furnish tender cubes of meat which can be run on skewers and broiled or pan-broiled in the same way as chops, while the less tender pieces in the shoulder or forequarter may be chopped up and stewed. In Armenian restaurants lamb broiled on skewers in this way is called "shish kebab." A little onion juice is sometimes squeezed over the meat just before cooking it. Salt and pepper are added when the broiled skewers of meat are served.

Stew.

In making stew of either lamb or mutton, choose cuts from the forequarter. Remove all excess fat, season the meat well, and allow sufficient time for cooking, since meat stews should be simmered rather than boiled. Such vegetables as onions, carrots and peas may be added to the stew or served with it.

Boiled Lamb or Mutton.

Boiled meat, so-called, is properly prepared by plunging the piece into boiling water, then keeping the water simmering until the meat is tender but not cooked to pieces. The leg, shoulder, heart, tongue and cuts from the breast of either lamb or mutton may be cooked in this way. By using different kinds of gravies and relishes, much variety can be given. Cold boiled mutton, panfried in a little butter or other fat, is particularly good as a luncheon, breakfast or supper dish.

Braised Mutton.

For braising, a combination of stewing and baking, one may use the shoulder, fresh tongue, breast, leg or loin.

INFECTED CLOTHING EASILY STERILIZED

Precautions Necessary to Prevent Spread of Disease.

Garments Worn by Persons Suffering With Contagious Diseases Need Special Treatment—Boiling Is Simple Method.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States Department of Agriculture points out that special care must be given to the clothing and linen used by a person suffering with any contagious disease and handkerchiefs used during a cold. They need special treatment and should not be kept or washed with other clothes. Separate bags or other containers that can be sterilized or destroyed should be provided. Infected clothing may spread the disease directly to the persons who handle it or indirectly through contact with other articles. Boiling is the simplest method of sterilizing infected clothing, but the heat is likely to injure some fiber and set stains and dirt; therefore other methods are sometimes preferable.

Such clothes may be disinfected previous to washing by immersion in one of the following solutions for one hour:

A 5 per cent dilution of the commercial solution of formaldehyde (formalin).

A 1 per cent solution of phenol (pure carbolic acid).

A ½ per cent solution of liquor cresolis compositus.

Further directions are given by the United States public health service

Infected clothing may also readily be sterilized by immersing in boiling water for ten mnutes.

Woolen goods may be disinfected by immersing in water maintained at a temperature of 165 degrees F. for 20 minutes. If the goods are then carefully washed and dried, no undue shrinkage of the garments should result and the infectious agents of disease, except those due to spore-forming bacteria, such as anthrax or gas gangrene, will have been destroyed.

The person who handles the infected garments should wear some form of apron to protect the clothing, and this apron should be disinfected immediately after the soiled clothes are handled. Also the hands and forearms should be thoroughly scrubbed with soap, water and a nail brush for ten minutes by the clock, and thoroughly rinsed in either the phenol solution or the cresolis solution mentioned above or in a 1:1000 solution of bichloride of mercury.

These precautions are necessary in order to prevent the germs on the clothes being carried to the mouth of one handling the clothes or indirectly to the mouths of others.

Value of Slice of Bread.

An ordinary slice of bread (a ¾-inch slice cut from an ordinary loaf) is equal in food value to about half a cupful of boiled or steamed cereal and to about a cupful of puffed or flaked cereal. The mother who must feed her child very economically should calculate the cost of each and decide which is cheapest, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

READY RELIEF FROM STAINS

Desirable to Keep Some of Articles Necessary to Remove Stains in Some Handy Place.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is desirable to keep some of the things most used for removing spots and stains where one can get at them quickly, the United States Department of Agriculture says. In many households these are kept in the laundry, but in others it is found convenient to keep in the bathroom a nonexplosive solvent, such as carbon tetrachloride, an absorbent, such as magnesia,

Removing Stains From Linen.

a little blotting paper, borax, ammonia, a small glass rod with rounded end, a small sponge and possibly a small bowl. A person is more likely to wash out gloves, silk stockings, collars, and other small articles promptly, if the proper kind of soap and perhaps a little bluing are at hand. Experienced travelers often carry with them small amounts of such materials.

SINGS WITH JOY WHILE AT WORK

Mrs. Banes Says Tanlac Ended Indigestion, Sourness and Palpitations and Made Labors Light.

"Tanlac has helped me so much I wish everyone suffering like I did would follow my suggestion to use it," said Mrs. Sadie Banes, 2037 Washington St., Kansas City, Mo., the other day.

"Before I took Tanlac my appetite was so poor it seemed beyond cultivation, and the little I managed to eat gave me indigestion and caused awful sourness and palpitation. I was simply miserable from nervous headaches, dizziness and knife-like pains in my back, always slept poorly, and felt so bad that at times I just had to quit my housework and lie down.

"Tanlac was so well suited to my case that it has only taken three bottles, half of the full treatment, to restore me to perfect health. It makes me so happy to be without an ache, pain or trouble of any kind that I go about my work humming and singing. I just can't help rejoicing over what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

Non-Inflammable Films.

For some time back there has been on the market a non-inflammable motion-picture film, made of acetate of cellulose instead of the usual introcellulose of celluloid, says the Scientific American. Because of the many dangers incurred with inflammable films, France has passed a law whereby all films used in that republic after June, 1925, must be of non-inflammable stock. Undoubtedly many other countries will soon enact similar legislation, making motion pictures safe.

TOOK HYPO-COD FEW DAYS; FEELS FINE

"My health got bad and finally I was feeling so badly I had to quit work and stay home. Different things I took helped me none, so finally I bought myself a bottle of Hypo-Cod. The clerk tried to sell me another kind, but I had tried it, so I insisted, and I'm glad I did, because Hypo-Cod is the real thing. I was built up strong and well and feeling fine in a few days. It put me back on the job in splendid shape quick and it doesn't cost any more than the other stuff, either. I say—good luck to Hypo-Cod," enthusiastically declared Mr. W. T. Morgan, 3 Yale St., North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa.

If a person wants the most palatable, effective, reconstructive, strength-building tonic made and is willing to pay the price, they should get Hypo-Cod. It does the work days and weeks sooner than weaker, old-fashioned preparations. It tastes nice. And right now, at this time of year, it is positively risky to linger around half sick. There is too much sickness going around.

All the druggists have Earle's Hypo-Cod. Insist on it. Accept no substitution.—Advertisement.

Time for Rejoicing.

Uncle George had been visiting at the home of little Tommie in Sullivan county. He had been there almost a week when, one morning, he announced his intention of going home. Little Tommie showed interest.

"Are you going home today?" he asked.

Instead of crying, little Tommie danced.

"Goodie, goodie!" he cried; "now it is time for me to be glad."—Indianapolis News.

Find Ancient Mine Workings.

A discovery of considerable archeological interest has been made 30 miles north of the Leeuwpoort tin mines in the Transvaal, near the Bechuanaland border. Nearby were old workings and a substantial body of ore containing whitish metal, apparently platinum or molybdenum. Mining engineers have left for the scene of the discovery.—London Times.

CHILDLESS HOMES MADE HAPPY

Presence of Little Ones a Great Blessing

Four Interesting Letters

Cortland, N. Y.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was weak and wanted to become strong and have a child. My husband read about it in the 'Cortland Standard' and thought it might help me. It certainly did for I now have a lovely boy fifteen months old who weighs forty pounds. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my friends and you can certainly use my testimonial in your little books and in the newspapers, as it might help to make some other childless home happy by the presence of little ones as it has done mine."—Mrs. CLAUDE P. A Message to Mothers

Hamilton, Ohio.—"I have known about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound since girlhood, having taken it when I was younger and suffering from a weakness and backache. Lately I have taken it again to strengthen me before the birth of my child, as I was troubled with pains in my back and a lifeless, weak feeling. I think if mothers would only take your wonderful medicine they would not dread childbirth as they do. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to every woman."—Mrs. JOS. FALCOIN, JR., 552 S. 11th Street, Hamilton, Ohio.

St. Louis, Mo.—"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me seven years ago. I was run down and had a weakness such as women often have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after being married sixteen years became the mother of a sweet little girl. I now have four lovely children—three fine boys and the little girl six years old. I had longed for children all the while and wept many a day and envied every woman with a child. I was 36 years old when my first baby was born. I recommend Lydia E. HOLSTEIN BREEDERS TO MEET

Allen Crissey, of Holstein Fresian Association, to Speak.

Breeders of Holstein cattle will be interested to know that a meeting of all Centre County farmers who are interested in Holstein cattle will be held on Tuesday, March 6, at 1:30 P. M., in the farm Bureau office at Bellefonte. Allen H. Crissey, field representative of the Holstein Fresian Asso. of America for this district (Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware) will be present and have some interesting and valuable suggestions for the promotion and improvement of the Holstein which is by far the predominating breed of dairy cattle in Centre County.

If you are a breeder of Holsteins, present, past or prospective, whether you own 100 pure-breds or one grade or just merely have a warm feeling for the "Black and White" dairy cow, you will want to hear Mr. Crissey on March 6.

Pasquerello in Bellefonte.

Mike Pasquerello, the alleged moonshiner who has been creating sensations since placed in the Clinton County jail in Lock Haven, several weeks ago, was brought to Bellefonte on Monday morning by Deputy Sheriff Harrison Johnston, of Lock Haven. Pasquerello was subpoenaed here to be a witness in a case in court. He is in Lock Haven jail on a charge of manufacturing and selling moonshine while residing in West Keating Twp., Clinton County. Our readers may recall his family spent a week in jail with him and caused the Clinton County officials lots of trouble. Pasquerello escaped from the jail one day last week and went to his home, when he heard that his wife and children, practically forced to leave the jail, were in distress. Officials got to his home before he did, however, and placed him in custody again, so that he had very little chance to help his family.

Brotherhood Banquet.

Tuesday evening, March 13, at 7:30 o'clock, is the big dinner and get-together meeting for all men of the town to be held in the Y. M. C. A., under direction of the Bellefonte Ministerium. There will be good eats, fine music, splendid fellowship, and a worth-while address by Dr. A. B. VanOrmer on "A Challenge to Manly Men." Dr. VanOrmer was the speaker at the combined Presbyterian and Lutheran Brotherhood meeting held in the Lutheran social room some weeks ago, and his remarks made such a favorable impression that those who heard him expressed the desire to have him speak at a meeting where all of the men of the town could listen to his gripping address—hence the plans for the big rally on March 13.

Freight Rated Too High.

The New Jersey State Fuel Commission issued a statement on Saturday that freight rates on anthracite coal from Pennsylvania were at least double what they should be. Coupled with the statement was the plea to municipal governments, public bodies and chambers of commerce, to adopt resolutions urging the Pennsylvania Legislature, now in session, to take such action as will minimize possibility of recurrence of conditions growing out of last year's long coal strike. The commission said investigation had shown that coal rates when compared with rates on other commodities, a grossly excessive rate, which the Interstate Commerce Commission will be asked to correct.

Houtzdale Defeated Bellefonte.

That Houtzdale High school basket ball team defeated the Bellefonte High school team in the Y. M. C. A. gym on Saturday evening in a hotly contested game, the score being 35—28. Our boys had been playing a winning game and showed good form when they met the visitors, but were unable to hold them in the second half.

Defeated Bellefonte Girls.

The Normal School basket ball team from Lock Haven on Friday evening defeated the Bellefonte High girls in a game in the Normal School gymnasium by a score of 31—13.

OVER THE COUNTY

Elias Weaver, a well-known resident of Spring Mills, twas painfully injured when he fell on the ice the other day and struck the back of his head.

The lodge of Elks, of Bellefonte, extended their charity to Centre Hall recently putting a ton of coal into an empty bin in our neighbor borough.

John D., a retired Percheron stallion owned by the Penn's Valley Stock Co., died on Tuesday morning of last week at the stable of J. Gross Shook, near Penn Hall. He was a very fine animal and the stockholders did not carry enough insurance, so that they lost money. Acute indigestion caused his death.

A large number of friends and neighbors gathered in Coburn on Monday evening of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kerstetter. A very enjoyable party was held. over half those present being masked and attired in unique costumes. The preceding Saturday evening, the young folks gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jamss Eisenhuth and made merry.

The thunder and lightning storm that recently passed over Penn's valley, did some costly damage in the adjacent county, striking a barn in Kishacoquillas valley on the J. D. Sterrett farm, tenanted by Clarence Hook. The barn and its contents. including 17 head of cattle, 4 hogs and 200 chickens, were burned. The loss was estimated at $20,000. The flames threatened the house and Mrs. Hook and her babe, born that day, were taken from the building when the flames threatened to destroy it. Very little insurance was carried by Sterrett and none by Hook.

Mrs. Mary M. Gates Dead.

Mrs. Mary M. Gates, widow of David Gates, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Kustaborder, of WarriorsMark, on Sunday morning at 1:30 o'clock from infirmities due to her age. She was born in Walker Twp., a daughter of Peter and Mary Haupt Solt, on March 7, 1840, so that she was nearing the age of 83 years. She married David Gates in 1859 and they resided in Ferguson Twp. and in Huntingdon County for many years. In 1872 they located at Loveville and remained in that section until about 1900, when she sold her property there. She then moved to WarriorsMark. For the past ten or fifteen years she made her home with her children. The deceased was a member of the Lutheran church for many years. Her husband preceded her in death. Surviving are the following children: Charles L., Hannah M., Ella., of Bellefonte; Mrs. Robert Kustaborder, of WarriorsMark; Mrs. Hughes Dixon, of Johnstown; Benner G., of Lewistown; Mrs. Charles Young, of Altoona; Earl, of Denver, Colo.; one sister Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, of Bellefonte, now 92 years old; one brother, Jacob Solt, of Frederick, Md., and three half-brothers: Cyrus Solt, of Bellefonte; James and Conrad, of Williamsport. Funeral services were held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Kustaborder, in WarriorsMark, on Tuesday morning and burial was made in the Lutheran cemetery.

Frederick Leathers Dead.

Frederick Leathers a resident of Howard, died in Dallas, Texas, last week from a stroke, according to word received here last Thursday. He was in Dallas on a business trip when afflicted. He had been in Oklahome since last October and three weeks before his death went to Texas. A son of William T. and Mary E. Leathers, he was born in Howard, where he spent most of his life. He was past middle age and senior member of the firm of Leathers Bros., dealers in real estate, and for several years was located in Allentown. His brothers, Cook and Jesse, were with him in Texas. About six years age he was married to Miss Florence Snyder, of Lock Haven, who survives, besides the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. D. L. Johnson, State College; Mrs. Howard B. Neff, Milesburg; Mrs. D. N. Yearick, Jacksonville; James, Howard; George, Erie; Cook and Jesse, late of Oklahoma. His widow is quite ill at present and definite arrangements for burial have not been except that the remains will be taken to Muskogee, Okla., and kept there temporarily in a receiving vault until later on when burial will be made at Howard.

Mrs. Life Tate Dead.

Mrs. Julia Ann Tate, wife of Life Tate, who died at the home in Lewistown on Wednesday of last week as narrated in last week's paper, was a native of Lemont, where she was born on Oct. 4, 1869. She was a good wife and mother, neighborly and possessed of traits that caused those who knew her best to cherish her friendship. She was an active member of the Baptist church of Lewistown, where funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial was made at Lewistown. Surviving are the husband; one son, Donald, of Burnham; four daughters: Mrs. Howard Miller, Mrs. Jessie Teenie, both of Lewistown; Ottilie and Myra, at home; and the following brothers: Jacob Jackson, of Lewistown; Robert, of Pittsburgh; Elmer, John and David, of Lemont. Her father, the late Robert C. Jackson, of Lemont, died two weeks ago today, just a few days before his daughter.

John Meckley Dead.

John Meckley, after an illness of just one week, died at his home in Houserville, last Saturday morning. Deceased was a veteran of the Civil war and was 98 years old last Christmas day. He followed farming for many years, retiring about 16 years ago to move to Houserville, where he had since resided. His wife died about 7 years ago. Surviving are the following children: Miles C., of near Bellefonte; Mrs. Wilbur Tibbens, of Pleasant Gap; Mrs. John Marshall, of Bellefonte; Fred, who made his home with his father at Houserville; and one brother, Ephraim, of near Altoona. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock and burial made in Myers cemetery.

Nelson Miller Dead.

Nelson Miller, a lifelong resident of Beech Creek Twp., died last Thursday morning. He was 82 years old on Feb. 14, last. He had been a farmer during his active years and had been residing on the homestead farm with his son, Thomas A. Miller, and family. Surviving are nine sons and daughters; also one brother, Alfred Miller, of Marsh Creek, and one sister, Mrs. Conrad Glock, of Beech Creek. Funeral services were held on Saturday at the Church of Christ in Blanchard, of which he had long been a member, and burial made in the cemetery opposite the church.

Infant Dead.

The infant son of Nelson and Catherine Hunter Rearick, of Lewistown, died on Saturday. The babe was just one week old. Its mother was a former Bellefonte girl, whose friends here sympathize with the young couple in their loss.

Mrs. J. Y. Dale Dead.

Mrs. Matilda A. Dale, widow of the late Dr. J. Y. Dale, died at the home of her son, Dr. David Dale, of Bellefonte, on last Thurrday night. Born in Philipsburg, a daughter of James Allport and Matilda Hunter Allport, she would have become 78 years old on June 23rd. She was a devoted mother and quiet, home-loving woman, esteemed highly by her friends. Since the death of her husband in 1908, she had made her home with her son in Bellefonte. She married Dr. J. Y. Dale on Aug. 19, 1871, and they began housekeeping at Lemont, where they resided for 40 years. Dr. Dale had a wide practice in that section of the county. Mrs. Dale was the last member of a large family to pass from this life. She is survived by two sons; Dr. Dale, of Bellefonte; Frederick Dale, a lieutenant colonel in the United States army, who recently visited his mother and brother in Bellefonte; and two daughters, Mrs. Silas Wetmore, Florence, S. C., and Mrs. Hall Crosman, Norristown. The remains of the deceased were cremated and placed by the side of her husband's ashes in the Branch cemetery.

John Hassinger Dead.

John Hassinger departed from this life on Feb. 17 at his home in Port Matilda. He suffered from heart asthma for about two years. Last November, he suffered a general breakdown and ever since gradually became weaker. He was 68 years and 25 days old. Most of his married life was spent at Scotia. For a number of years he was employed under the management of F. H. Clemson and the late Henry Valentine as a steam shovel engineer. After the mines ceased to be operated he moved his family to Port Matilda, where he was employed by the Superior Silica Brick Co. Mr. Hassinger was a staunch Republican all of his life. A kind and worthy husband, he leaves his widow, Mrs. Margaret Hassinger, and the following children: Chester and Mrs. Elsie Fields, of Norristown; Mrs. Eve Snyder and Mrs. Nannie Speck, of Akron, O.; Mrs. Myrtle Young and Mrs. Rebecca Patton, of Port Matilda; Mrs. Edith Korman, of Milesburg, and William, at home. Funeral services were held at his late home on Feb. 20 at 2 P. M., conducted by Rev. Shannon and Rev. Upham, of the United Brethren and M. E. churches. Burial was made in the new cemetery at Port Matilda.

James A. Stine Dead.

James Allison Stine, a well known resident of State College, died on Monday morning at 9 o'clock from grippe. He was born at Curtin on August 24, 1844, a son of Jacob and Mary Stine, both deceased. He married Isabella Fetzer on March 14, 1884, who preceded him to the grave. Three sons survive: Harvey R., of State College; A. W. and J. Ellis, of Bellefonte. One sister, Mrs. Maggie Williams, of Pittsburgh, also survives. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, services being conducted by Rev. G. W. Eminhizer assisted by Rev. C. C. Shuey. The deceased was a member of the United Brethren church and a veteran of the Civil war. He kept store on North Thomas street, Bellefonte, for many years. Although blind, he got about with remarkable ability and without help.

Death of Child.

Milton Hays Hunter, 21 months old, a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hunter, died at the D. Hr Shivery home in Bellefonte on last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock from pneumonia. The parents came to Centre County about three weeks ago and were boarding at the Shivery home. Mr. Hunter is an agent for Porter's "Pain King," a medicine which he had been handling in this section. The child was sick for about ten days. Besides the parents, one brother, Herbert, 4 years old, survives. The body was prepared for burial by Frank Wetzler and shipped to Latrobe, parental home of the young couple, on Saturday.

Two Dead from Pneumonia.

Mrs. Ida Long, of Juniata, who went to Pittsburgh to care for her friend, Mrs. Margaret Rogers, died in the West Penn hospital on Tuesday morning from pneumonia, contracted while caring for Mrs. Rogers, who died from the same disease on Saturday. Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Long were both born in Bellefonte. The remains of Mrs. Rogers were buried in the Union cemetery, here, on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Long's body will also be brought here for burial.

Miss Ella Philips Dead.

The body of Miss Ella Philips, a Penn's valley young woman, who died in Harrisburg on Tuesday night, was brought to Centre Hall today, and taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. Peter Philips, of near Colyer, for burial.

Death of Infant.

Esther Feidler, 8 months old, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Feidler, of Greenburr, died Friday from grippe. Funeral services were conducted on Saturday and burial made in the Reformed cemetery at Greenburr.

R. A. Zentmyer Dead.

Robert A. Zentmyer, a prominent citizen of Tyrone, who became widely known throughout the state by his aggressive Sunday School work, died at his home on Sunday morning from angina pectoris. He was 61 years old.

PHILIP WIRTZ DEAD

One of County's Oldest Residents Is Called.

Philip Benner Wirtz, one of Centre County's oldest residents, died on Sunday evening at 9:20 o'clock from hardening of the arteries. He had been in failing health for several months, steadily declining in that period. Up until this illness, however, he had enjoyed good health and had splendid use of all his faculties. He was a lifelong Republican and staunch for his chosen party. Last fall he went to the election and, without glasses, marked the ticket, voting Republican as usual.

Born near Houserville on April 8, 1831 he remained in that vicinity all of his long and useful life. He was a son of Jacob and Anna Wirtz, pioneer settlers in that section of the county. He was the last of a family of 13 children.

Sixty years ago last November he married Miss Catherine Dale and she will be 89 years old on May 4. Her condition is reported as very feeble at this writing.

Together they enjoyed the pleasures of life or shared the troubles and sorrows which come this way, but always they viewed life with a complacent, contented spirit that helped much toward the attainment of a ripe old age which spelled happiness as they trod their path together.

Beside the widow, there is surviving one son, John Wirtz, who has had charge of the homestead farm which was always the home of the deceased, since the latter retired from active farming 21 years ago. There were two daughters, Lucy and Anna, who died in their teens. There are also three grandchildren—Ruth (Mrs. Claude Hoy), Pearl—(Mrs. B. L. Chilcote) and Roy, all residing within a mile or so of the homestead farm—and five great grandchildren. One peculiarity to the family that has been noticed is that his son and his grandson, each have but one son born in their families, the other children being all girls.

The deceased was a veteran of the Civil war, perhaps the oldest of the few survivors of this terrible conflict in this county, who have been answering the rollcall one by one. He was also an active member of the Patrons of Husbandry, Victor Grange, No. 159. For a long term of years, he was an active member of the Reformed church at Houserville, where funeral services were held this Thursday morning. Burial was made at Shiloh cemetery.

With the passing away of this veteran, we note he is the third grand old man to answer the final summons in Centre County within a few weeks time. The first and oldest was Geo. W. Lingle, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Clark, in Bellefonte, Jan 22, within a few months of being 100 years old. Next, was the venerable Joel Johnson, who died in Bellefonte at the home of his son, M R., on Feb. 10, and then Mr. Wirtz.

Heralded as Coldest Night.

Last Friday night was heralded as the coldest night of the winter. The thermometer registered below zero, reports generally indicating 3 to 4 below. David Barlet, Sr., who resides on North Thomas St., said water froze in his kitchen and that it was the first time this winter, so he is sure it was the coldest night of the season. Lew Hipple, P. R. R. section foreman between Bellefonte and Milesburg, said, "This is St. Matthias' Day, too. The old saying is, 'On St. Matthias Day ice is made or broken,' Ice was made early in the morning and according to the saying we will still have three weeks more of winter."

Snow Was Drifted.

Loose snow was drifted last Thursday and Friday nights by strong winds which swept the valleys of Centre County. Bus drivers reported roads in Bald Eagle, Nittany and Buffalo Run valley, drifted so that in some places it was difficult to get through. The passenger train on the Lewisburg and Tyrone branch, operating through Penn's valley pulled into the Bellefonte station somewhat late on Saturday morning with snow piled on all the steps of the passenger coaches, indicating that the train had passed through deep drifts. Trainmen say one of the worst places to drift is a cut just east of Centre Hall.

Bad Year for Measles.

This is a bad year for measles, according to Dr. J. M. Campbell, of the state department of health, who points out that in 1913 there were 90,000 cases reported; in 1916, 100,000; in 1920, 72,000; and this year an equally higher number with comparatively few cases reported in intervening years. This would indicate that the disease seems to run in cycles, says Dr. Campbell, but he believed this year should be no more dangerous than preceding years. "With exercising care and caution, the disease ordinarily is not fatal, although children under 5 years of age are to some degree subject to bronchial pneumonia."

Donald Clifford Confer Dead.

Donald Clifford Confer, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Confer, of Benner Twp., died from pneumonia on Saturday. He was born in August. He is survived by his parents, two sisters and one brother. Burial was made on Monday afternoon.

FIRE AT STATE COLLEGE

Destroyed Keller Slaughter House and Lot of Meat.

State College was visited by a very costly fire early on Monday morning when the slaughter house of J. D. Keller, with its contents, was entirely destroyed. The loss is estimated at $18,000, partially covered by insurance.

The flames were noticed a short time after midnight by students of The Pennsylvania State College. They turned in an alarm and the fire company responded. There was no hope of saving the building, however, as the flames had too much headway, burning with great intensity.

All the machinery in the buildings together with considerable smoked meats, and a lot of fresh meat that was dressed on Saturday, fed the flames. In the neighborhood of 16 hogs had been killed on Saturday, besides other beef cattle and sheep, much of which was in the building and was destroyed.

Real Estate Transfers.

Recorder William H. Brown has recorded the following real estate transfers:

G. W. Hosterman, et al, to R. B. Hosterman, tract in Haines Twp.; $1.

John H. Weber, et al, to Theodore D. Boal, tract in College Twp.; $100.

Mary E. Sholl to A. Walker's trustees, tract in Penn Twp.; $840.34.

Alfred Beezer, et ux, to Grover B. Lannen, tract in Benner Twp.; $1,800.

Had a Big House.

A well filled house greeted the players of the company which presented 'Under Hawaiian Skies'' in the local opera house on Monday evening, the first show to be seen here in months and indicating the popularity among local theatre-goers of the musical show. Several other musical comedies have been booked for March. One striking note of the shows coming is that the prices are lower and the public seems willing to manifest their appreciation for this change, giving a popular stamp of approval by turning out enmasse on Monday evening. A number of players in the production had been here previously in similar rolls. The music, the scenery and the acting was well worth the price of the show.

Would Use State Cops.

A bill permitting the assignment of state police to duty in boroughs and first-class townships upon request of local officials, was introduced in the General Assembly this week. The assignments would be for a period of two years. The expense would be paid by the district asking the service. The measure has the approval of Governor Pinchot, Attorney General Woodruff and Major Lynn G. Adams, head of the state police.

Plumbers Were Busy.

Plumbers were kept busy on Saturday, the coldest night of the season causing trouble where water pipes were not fully protected.

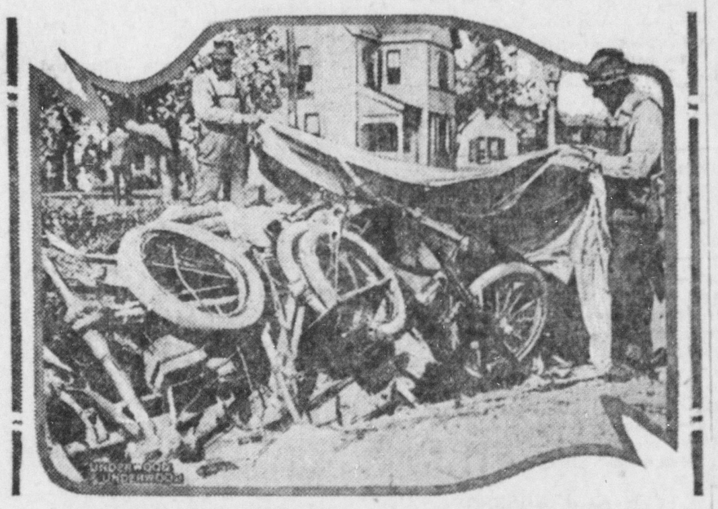
Refuse to Sell to French and Belgians

The photograph shows a sign in a Berlin shop which, translated, reads: "No goods will be sold to French or Belgians because of the Ruhr occupation." Many such signs appeared in German shop windows after the French and Belgian troops marched into the Ruhr.

Scene of Auto Disaster in Ohio



All that remained of a touring party which started out from Columbus, O., for Florida. They reached Glendale, O., 120 miles from Columbus, when they attempted to cross a double railroad track. They stopped for a freight train to pass and failed to notice an express coming on the other track. All five were killed.

Tutankhamen Had Embalmed Beef

Natives are shown here carrying embalmed beef, or what is generally known in military circles as "Canned Willie," from the tomb of the ancient King Tutankhamen of Egypt. Forty packages similar to those shown in the photograph were taken from the king's tomb. The beef was packed in little wooden boxes which were painted white.

IN HIGH SCHOOL AT EIGHT

Arthur Gottesman of Atlanta, Ga., has just entered high school at the age of eight. At the age of six he entered the third grammar school grade; took a half year in the third grade; whole year in the fourth; skipped through the fifth grade in less than two weeks. Spent a year in the sixth grade and passed up the seventh grade work in half a year. His average marks were "A" during his grammar school career. The youngster plans to enter Harvard when twelve years old.

HERE IS "MISS CANADA"

Winifred C. Blain, nineteen years old, of St. John, N. B., chosen in Montreal as "Miss Canada," from a group of nine girls from the leading cities of the Dominion. Personality was one of the features considered by the judges in the contest to discover a true type of Canadian girl with an aptitude for Canadian winter sports. In private life she is a customs broker's stenographer earning $10 a week.

BURLEY TOBACCO HEAD

J. C. Stone, president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative association, is the actual head of an organization of more than 78,000 farmers in the states of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee and Missouri. Under his direction growers sold during the past year 120,000,000 pounds of tobacco. Mr. Stone was born at Richmond, Ky., in 1878, was educated at Central university, and entered the tobacco business in 1897.

CALL HIM IMPOSTOR

Denounced as an impostor by the Spanish embassy in Washington, Don Alphonse Louis Jerome de Bourbon, who claims to be the eldest son of Alphonso XII, late king of Spain, said the embassy could not disprove his claims, which are to be tried out in a few weeks before the Sacred college in Rome. The embassy sent word to the State department that Don Louis is not a half-brother of the present king of Spain. The denunciation followed Don Louis' appearance before Committee on Agriculture in Washington.

How the Fires Start.

In the forests of the Rockies the evergreens stand some distance apart so that their tops do not touch, says the "School Book of Forestry" of the American Tree association. As a result, these western forests do not shade the ground as well as those in the East. This causes the soils of these forests to be much drier, and also increases the danger from fire.

Hard to Determine Turtle's Age.

The bureau of fisheries says there is no sure way in which to determine the age of a hardshell turtle. In most instances the plates are examined closely with a microscope, and on these plates there can be noticed scale expansion. This scale expands as the turtle grows, leaving a ring of growth. These rings are counted the same as those of a tree.

CHINTZ COVERS

By CORONA REMINGTON

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Oh, Raymond, look at this little dining room set. Isn't it precious! It'll go so well with the dull colored walls."

While the salesman's back was turned Gladys Clayton had slipped a pleading hand into her fiance's.

"How much is it?" he asked.

"On special sale now for only $395. It was a $500 set," she smiled.

"Pretty high," commented Sanders.

"Oh, Raymond, but it's so lovely."

She laid a soft hand on the smooth surface and almost caressed it. "I can just shut my eyes and see it in our little home," she whispered.

"We'll take it," said Raymond after a while. "Want it delivered the first of August."

It was a blissful half holiday that the two had had together choosing things for the new home—their home. But that night the reaction set in. It was going to cost many times more than Raymond had dreamed. Earning $65 a week, how much could a fellow save, he wondered. He could never save enough to make even partial payment on the house and furniture. And after that, to meet those enormous installments every month! It couldn't be done; yet no one could ask Gladys to live with cheap furniture. She who was accustomed to every luxury. Bless her heart, she should have it, but how was he to manage?

The next evening it was a very sober man that greeted his radiant sweetheart.

"Why, whatever's the matter, Ray? I was just feeling so joyful thinking about our new home and everything." She clung to him and looked up at the troubled face.

"I've decided, dear—might as well get it over at once. I've decided we'll have to postpone our wedding a little while. We haven't set the actual date or sent out the invitations or anything."

"Oh, Raymond, why? Has anything gone wrong? Do tell me quick.

"Nothing, dear, only starting housekeeping's a little more expensive than I thought it was." He tried to say it lightly and laugh it off.

They talked for a long time, neither being perfectly frank, and when at last he went away Gladys rushed into the living room where her parents were.

"Why the gloom?" asked her father, putting down his paper and holding out a sympathetic hand.

"Oh, daddy, I'm so miserable. Raymond says we'll have to put off our wedding.

"What does he mean? What's the trouble? Nice thing for a man to say!"

"He simply hasn't enough money. Everything costs so much. Just the furniture cost a little fortune. Now the bedroom suite—" and she was off in a maze of figures.

After a moment her father whistled softly.

"When mother and I were married," he said, "our bedroom 'suite' consisted of an iron bed and a washstand made out of a soapbox with some—what was that flowered stuff you put around it, mother?"

"Chintz?" smiled Mrs. Clayton.

"Yes, that's it, chintz. And I thought it was beautiful because your mother fixed it. I was earning $18 a week then. No, sir, not the finest set of furniture under the sun could have made us postpone our wedding. Could it, mother?"

He smiled into the eyes across the table.

"Hardly. And what fun we had buying our furniture piece by piece as you were able to afford it! Remember the sideboard you presented to Gladys on her first birthday and how we put on our best clothes and cooked a real Sunday dinner in honor of the birthday and the sideboard."

They laughed together and Mr. Clayton shook his head.

"Don't know what's come over you young folks nowadays.

Immediately after breakfast the next morning, Gladys, with white, set face, went into the hall to telephone. Number after number she gave and she did not stop until she had canceled the order for every piece of furniture. Then she called in her fiance and told him what she had done.

"You darling!" he sang into the phone. "I thought it was going to kill me to have to wait any longer, but I could see no way out. I was nearly frantic."

"No," she said. "I thought it over and decided I'd rather be with you in a hut than to have all the fine furniture in the world.

"You angel, but we'll have the furniture anyway, soon."

"Of course we will, and—but Raymond, don't you dare slip it—but I heard daddy say last night he was going to give us the dining room set for a wedding present and in the bedroom we'll have an iron bed and for a washstand a soapbox covered with chintz."

"Anything you want, darling," he laughed. "But what a funny little thing you are. But as far as I'm concerned I don't care a darn, not a single darn what we have so long as I have you!"

Obsolescent.

"Johnny, can you spell 'horse?'"

"I could if I wanted to, but what's the use spellin' anything so out o' style?"—Boston Evening Transcript.

CATCHING FISH WITH POISON

Natives of Borneo Have Peculiar Method of Levying Toll on the Finny Tribe.

Along the tributary streams of the Rejang river, in the independent state of Sarawak, on the island of Borneo, the native Sedowans and Dyaks have a unique method of taking fish, and one much superior to dynamiting. Near the mouth of a creek a barrier of latticework is erected. In this space is left an opening wide enough to permit the canoes to pass through. After the boats go up the stream a net is placed across the opening. From 20 to 30 canoes engage in fishing. When the point is reached where operations are to begin, two small dugouts, which have been towed, are emptied of their liquid contents. This muddy-looking concoction is tuba poison, from the plant coculus indicus. The poison is made by pounding the root to shreds and then mixing with water in certain proportions known to the fishermen. Quick results are obtained. In about five minutes stupefied fish begin coming to the surface gasping for breath. The numbers increase with every passing minute. Standing up in their canoes the natives spear the helpless fish with great rapidity. In half an hour the boats are generally filled to capacity. How potent the tuba poison is may be realized by the fact that within half an hour after a few gallons have been poured in a good-sized creek, fish a mile and a half downstream are brought to the surface in considerable numbers. Where the tuba poison method is good is that the poison does not kill the fish—only stupefies them temporarily. Thus all not taken for food soon are normal again.

ODD MATERIAL FOR SCULPTOR

How Canova, One of the World's Great Masters, Started on the Road to Fame.

Antonio Canova, famous Venetian sculptor, first attracted attention by modeling a lion in butter. When nine years old he was placed in the household of a nobleman. His grandfather, a stonecutter, had taught him the rudiments of carving.

One day the nobleman was giving a state dinner. The chief ornament for the table failed to arrive. The host was in despair. The boy set to work on a huge piece of butter and when the nobleman beheld a molded lion he was well pleased. The result was that Antonio was sent to take lessons in sculpture.

For four years he worked at his art in a cell underneath a monastery. At last he produced a statue which sent the art critics wondering. The Venetian senate sent him to Rome to study when he was twenty-three years old.

He hit upon a new and daring style and for a time every one in Rome scorned it. He worked for 20 years in extreme poverty but at last his work came to be recognized as that of a master.

Garibaldi's Love of Animals.

George Macaulay Trevelyan, author of an old book about the Italian patriot, tells this story about his love of animals:

"The tenderest of the brave, he took thought not only for men and women, but for the joys and sufferings of animals. Ever since the day when, as a child, he had cried over the wounded grasshopper, he was brother to every living thing. He could not endure that a bird should be caged, nor allow an animal to be struck in his presence. It pained him even to see flowers plucked, or a bough wantonly broken.

"During his dictatorship in Naples, in 1860, he spent, in trying to remedy the condition of the cab-horses, much time which others thought he should have given to tasks of government in time of crisis; and in the following year, when he was the most famous man in Europe, he thought it natural to go out at night in the rain to seek a strayed lamb among the rocks and brushwood of Caprera."

Dampness Harms a Piano.

Most people know that a piano should never stand in a draught; but it is not always possible to place the instrument in an ideal position. A piano is frequently regarded as a piece of furniture, instead of a somewhat delicate arrangement of fine wire and hammers which are very susceptible to changes of temperature. Damp is the greatest enemy that confronts the piano, but if the lid is raised frequently and allowed to remain open for a time a current of air can circulate inside. Damp also causes the hammers to swell, which, in turn, makes the keys hard to depress. It is never advisable to have a valuable piano in a cold room in winter for more than a day or two at a time; and if possible a small oil stove should be placed near to it for an hour or so each day, if it is not desirable to light a fire occasionally.

Specifications for Biological Glass.

The bureau of standards in collecting information from the army, navy, the biological survey, the public health service, and manufacturers of biological products concerning the requirements of glass for this purpose and the desirability of preparing standard specifications covering the same. The bureau has already assisted manufacturers of biological products in obtaining glass suitable for their use, but the requests have indicated a possible value for more complete specifications.—Scientific American.

Cable Laid in Record Time.

Six miles of telegraph cable was laid and put into service in Sweden in just eight minutes. The trick was done by stretching the cable from an airplane. Of the time consumed, six minutes was spent in flying, and the other two in making connections. Thus the cable was laid at the rate of a mile a minute.

World's Debt to Doctors.

Malaria remained a mystery until the patient detective work of doctors proved that it was the bite of a certain genus of mosquito that conveyed the disease to man. Now that the facts are known, destruction of the breeding places of these mosquitoes is followed by immunity from the disease.

Reached Absolute Limit.

A young neighbor, my sister and myself were coming home from the store one evening when it began to rain. We started to run, but after hurrying for some time, slowed up again. My young neighbor, between gasps, cried: "Virginia, please don't run any more; my heart's broke now."—Exchange.

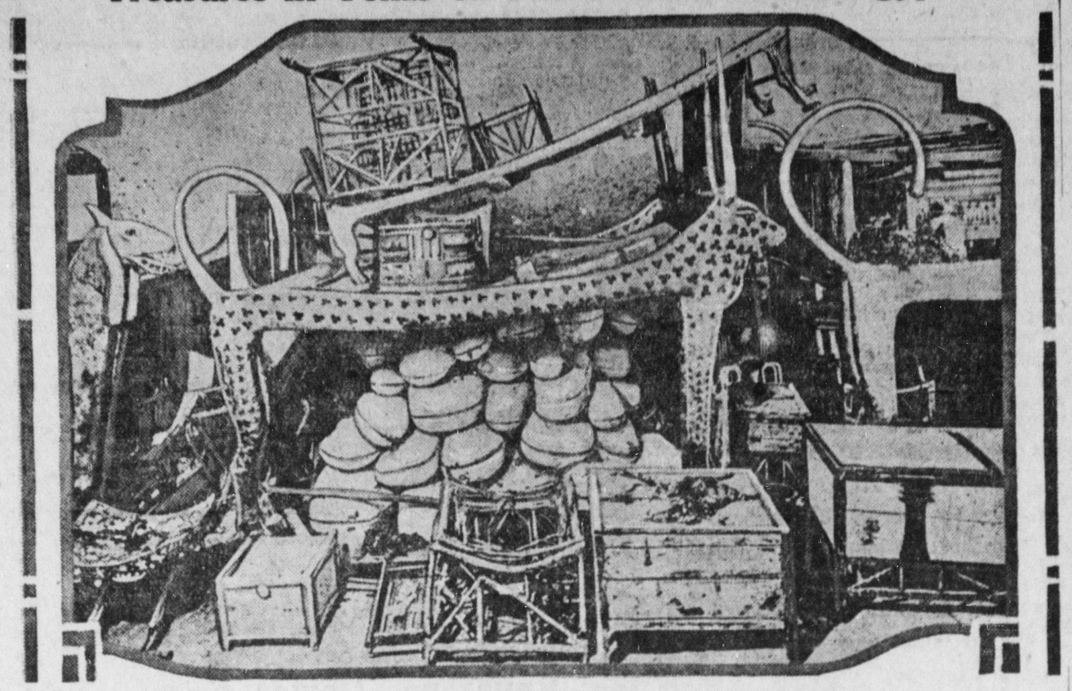
Treasures in Tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen of Egypt



London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

Opening of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, the "heretic" king of the Eighteenth Egyptian dynasty, at Luxor, has revealed an unexampled storehouse of treasures. This photograph gives a view of the antechamber looking west. Among the articles shown are a box containing the king's undergarments and other things; a large gilt couch with supports in the form of lions; a couch with supports in the form of "hat-hor" cows; numerous boxes containing mummified meat; a painted red box containing jewelry and ornaments; a papyrus rush-work stool, much decayed; the king's stool; another couch; four alabaster unguent vases of unique type and beauty; a semi-circular veneered box having minute detail of inlaid ivory.

HIS FUNERAL FLOWERS

London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

In the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, king of Egypt, who died more than three thousand years ago, were found these funeral flowers, which are wonderfully preserved, still showing a trace of green.

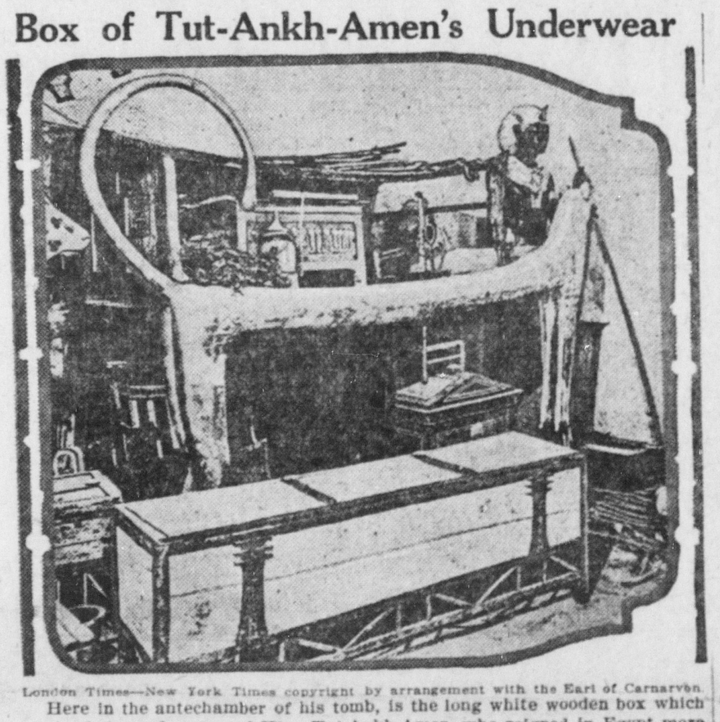
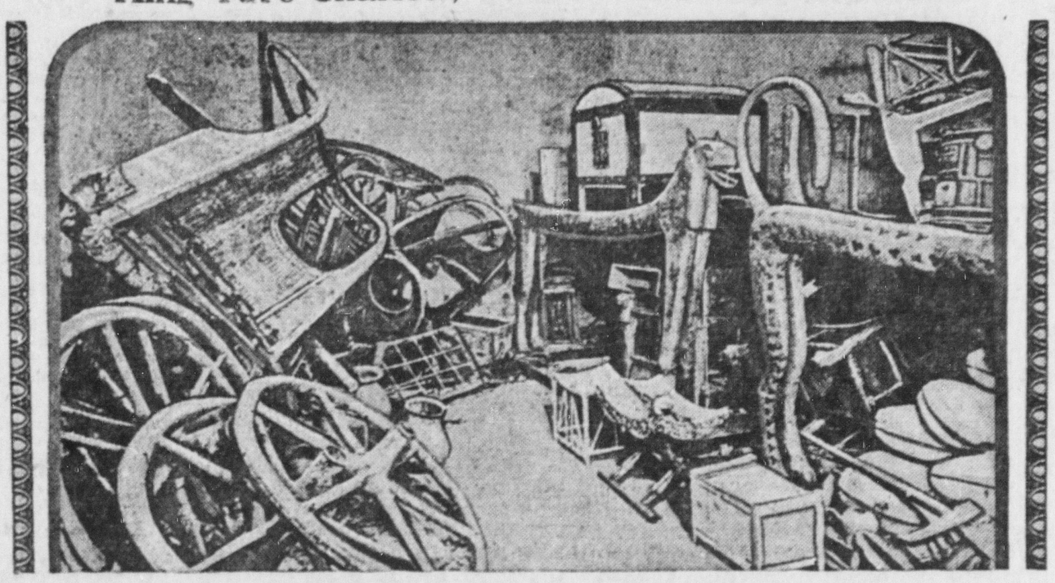
Box of Tut-Ankh-Amen's Underwear



London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

Here in the antechamber of his tomb, is the long white wooden box which contained the underwear of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, who reigned in Egypt more than three thousand years ago. It also held many of his weapons.

King Tut's Chariots, Couches and Funeral Meats



London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

In this photograph of the antechamber of the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, king of Egypt more than thirty centuries ago, the principal objects seen are the king's stool, made of solid ebony with ivory and having gold mountings; a large royal ceremonial gilt couch; the king's throne which is covered with gold and silver and inlaid with precious stones; a wood trellis stool, a large wooden casket; a carved wood and ivory chair of exquisite workmanship; wheels, bodies, poles, harness and other parts of four chariots; wood gilt trellis work from an object of unknown use.

KING'S ROBE CHEST

London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

This beautiful painted casket, found in the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen of Egypt, contained the king's robes, decorated with elaborate bead and gold work of lapis-lazuli and turquoise; a gilt headrest like those used in Japan today, several pairs of sandals ornamented with inlaid gold, a black amber necklace, a collarette of faience, and other objects.

GUARDS THE SEPULCHER

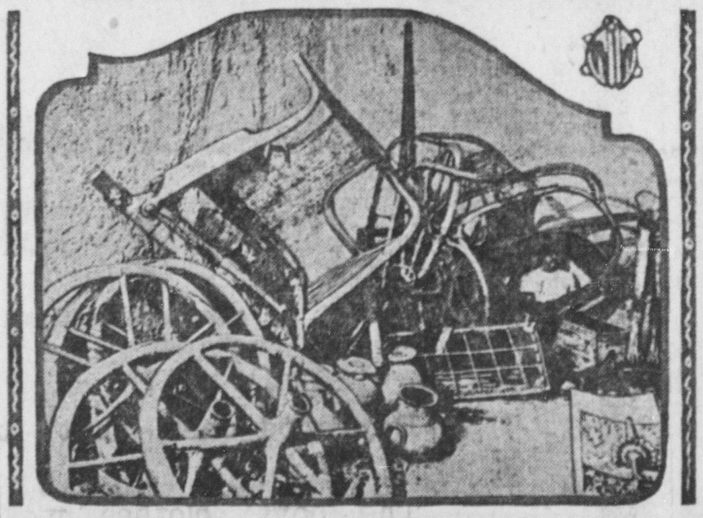
One of the two statues of King Tut-Ankh-Amen guarding the sealed entrance to the sepulcher of that ancient Egyptian monarch. They are of wood, covered with a black material and richly decorated with gold.

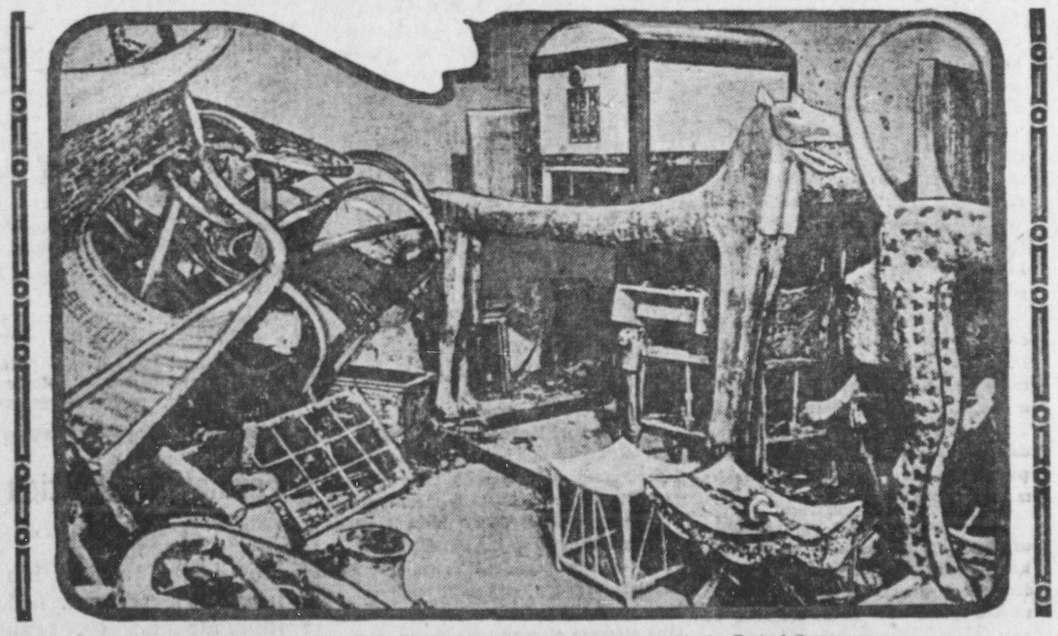
Tut-Ankh-Amen's Four Chariots



London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

Here are the wheels, bodies, poles and other parts of four chariots as they were found in the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen at Luxor, Egypt. They are made of various hard woods, covered with stucco gilt, leather and inlaid ivory. The floors are of hide, in one case of leopard skin.

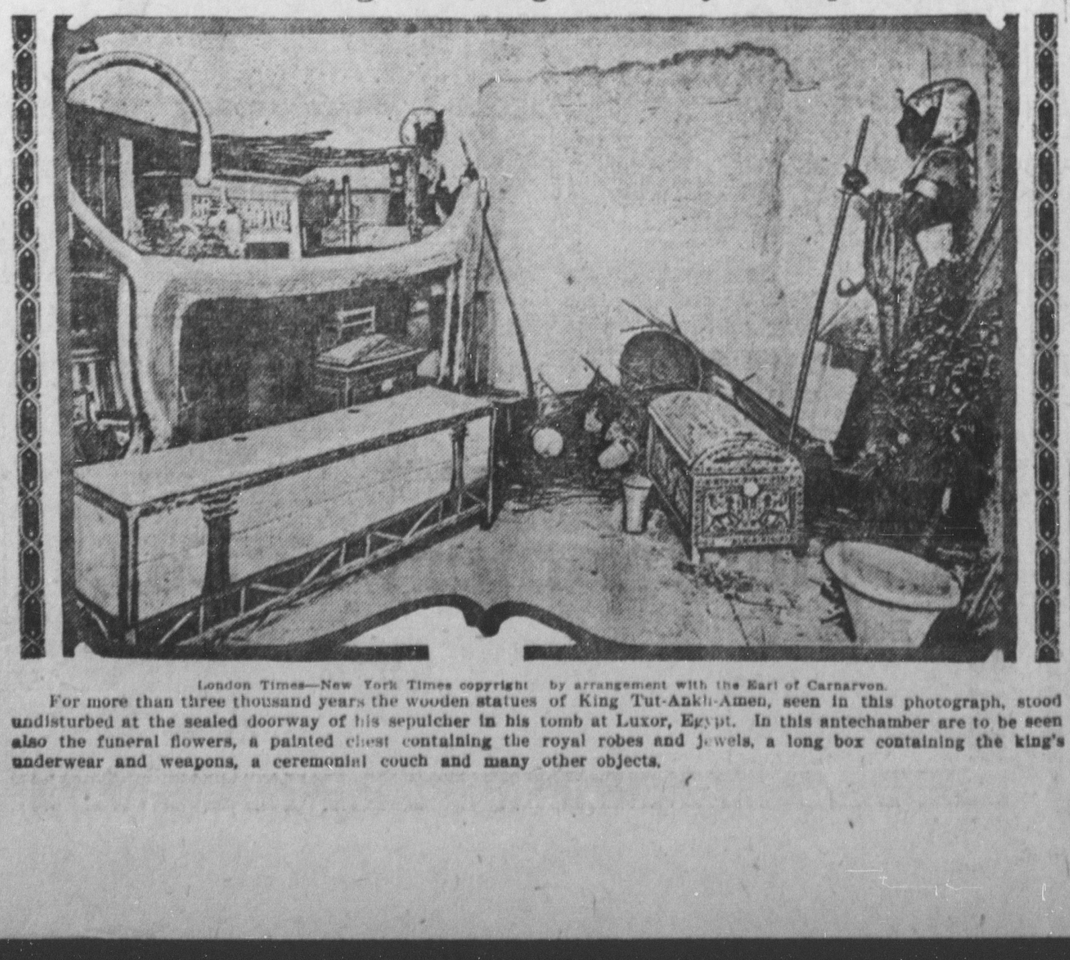
King Tut-Ankh-Amen's Typhon Couch of Solid Gilt



London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

This view of the antechamber of the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen at Luxor, Egypt, shows the royal ceremonial couch of solid gilt supported by animals of the Typhonic type. Upon it is a large white wooden chest, and beneath and in front of it other objects including gold, ivory and wooden chairs.

Statues of King Guarding Doorway of Sepulcher



London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

For more than three thousand years the wooden statues of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, seen in this photograph, stood undisturbed at the sealed doorway of his sepulcher in his tomb at Luxor, Egypt. In this antechamber are to be seen also the funeral flowers, a painted chest containing the royal robes and jewels, a long box containing the king's underwear and weapons, a ceremonial couch and many other objects.

PASSAGE TO THE TOMB

Alabaster Vases in King Tut's Tomb

London Times—New York Times copyright by arrangement with the Earl of Carnarvon.

Cluster of alabaster unguent vases of unique type, just as they were discovered in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, the ancient Egyptian king, when it was opened. The vases still contain unguents which give off a faint odor.

King Tut-Ankh-Amen reigned in Egypt at least 3,250 years ago, and some authorities claim as far back as the days of Moses, and that it was his armies that were engulfed in the Red sea when pursuing the Children of Israel. At least his reign was as far back as that of Saul, first king of Israel.

Report Enforcement Bill.

Following a spirited public hearing at Harrisburg, on Tuesday, the Pinchot prohibition enforcement bill was reported favorably to the Senate, the committee voting 5 in favor of the bill and 2 against. One of the principal objections filed against the bill was that contrary to legal procedure up to the present time, the measure places upon persons arrested the necessity of proving that they are not guilty. Heretofore, a person charged with any crime has, according to law, been conceded to be innocent until proven guilty. The Volstead law follows the latter procedure. It was also contended that the search and seizure feature of the bill, permitting homes to be searched, would be a dangerous experiment in that it would subject citizens to blackmail at the hands of unscrupulous persons. The bill was also objected to on the ground that a person making and having in his home a pint of wine is just as liable legally as if he were found with a barrel of whiskey in his possession. Advocates of the bill argued that the drastic features complained of were desired by them and that the provisions instead of being modified should be made even more severe.

WANT BIG BOND ISSUE

Would Enable Penn State to Proceed with Program.

Faced with the fact that state economy plans will this year prohibit the appropriation of building funds to relieve crowded conditions at The Pennsylvania State College, friends of the institution have suggested a state bond to provide $8,000,000 for this purpose.

A joint legislative resolution to this effect would have to be passed in this session and in that of 1925, and the proposition placed before the voters for approval as a constitutional amendment at the general election in November, 1925. Friends of the college believe this is a long time to wait for relief of conditions that now require the refusal of almost 1 000 applicants a year, but can see no other way out of the difficulty.

The uncertainty of this project and the total inadequacy of the terms of the present legislative maintenance allowance of over half a million less than is now required to operate the state owned institution, combined to place State College in the most critical situation in its history.

A backward step of 25 years would face the college unless the maintenance appropriation bill at Harrisburg is increased to a figure in keeping with operation costs of the past year, according to estimates. To shrink the 3,300 student body to 2,000 at one stroke with practically no freshmen to be admitted for 2 years, would prove disastrous to the institution.

Faculty members are uneasy over the ultimate outcome as to whether or not the Legislature will take steps to make possible the addition of approximately $500,000 to the maintenance item. Without the addition many valuable instructors will be lost through resignation or dismissal, and the situation is naturally a distasteful one for them to contemplate. The campus is settling down to a policy of "watchful waiting" with the hope that adequate support will be provided so as to enable the college to continue its present scale of operation.

The Music Club Concert.

There will be a concert on March 12, in the Presbyterian chapel at 8:15. All are invited The program will consist of orchestral music by the State College club, the musicians being chosen from the best of the State College men, assisted by Mrs. Packenham, an English concert pianist and member of the Royal Academy of London. There will also be piano solos by Miss Mary Kessler, of Millheim, a young women of talent and a protege of Fritz Kreistler.

Music Club's State Convention.

A state convention of the Pennsylvania Federation of Music Clubs will be held at State College, April 10, 11 and 12. At this convention the federation offers prizes to young American students of music, the winners being financed in their studies and eventually launched on a professional career. Miss Kessler, who will play in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church on the 12th, will be presented as a contestant by the Bellefonte club.
